Hey, Platypus?

Jun. 11th, 2008 at 4:37 PM

The notaboy wants to know if he can come visit.

I could bring him by tonight if you're up for company.

As long as he doesn't mind me following the laughing with the occasional "Ow ow ow." Sure thing.

A few days sooner, and the story about the guy filling in for his friend behind the counter in the sex toys shop might have set my recovery back weeks.

I might even let you borrow it sometimes. That is, if I were to happen to have one.

Oh, she's not so bad. That space alien in the cape has turned her head, is all.

When I decided to be born in February, I must not have realized I'd own a motorcycle. Winter storms play hell with...

Too soon?

Is this conversation grounds for workplace harassment? Not my half of it, of course.

Too soon?

Next time I walk into the local office, I'm going shirtless to make sure I comply with y'all's dress code

Wabbit?

Did I mention you can keep that one?

I mean, as long as you want to.

Oddly enough, him having a Girl makes it all much easier. I'm not having random undeserved urges to bite him for breathing, or being nice to me.

Is this the healing process? It sucks less than I expected. Sure takes a long time though.

Aw. If it is, I'm glad it sucks less. If it isn't, whatever it is, I'm glad it doesn't uniformly suck.

Why don't you want people to be nice to you?

Never mind--ignore that. Late, tired, percoset or something like.

Thank you for visiting, and bringing the notaboy. I had fun.

Your retraction was printed too late. Now you have to live with the answer.

Not people. Boys.

Because Boys are only nice to you to get you to let your guard down. And then you start to trust them, and as soon as you do that and expect them to be there if you really need them, you really need them. And then they ditch your ass in the weeds by the side of the road, and it's a long walk home.
